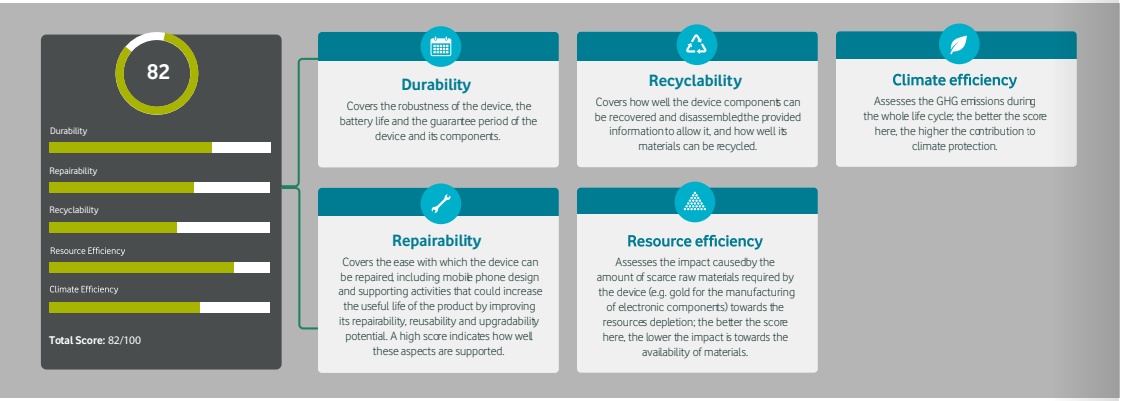
Supporting sustainable choices with Eco Rating

The Eco Rating score is an objective assessment of the environmental performance of mobile phones.

Eco Rating evaluates the environmental impact of the entire process of production, transportation, use and disposal of mobile phones on a scale from 1 to 100. The closer the score is to 100. the better the sustainability performance of the device.



Eco Rating's methodology evaluates the environmental performance of the phones across their entire life cycle – production, transportation, use and disposal at end of life –, culminating in a final Eco Rating score.

1 Raw Materials
The raw materials used in the production of mobile phones and their components. The more that devices use recycled materials, not scarce natural resources, the higher the Eco Rating score for this stage.

2 Manufacturing
When the components of the mobile phone are produced and assembled to become the finished product, including packaging and accessories. The Eco Rating will verify the impact of this stage for carbon emissions, energy consumption and other environmental categories.

3 Transport
Once the device is assembled, the finished product is shipped from the manufacturing location to the country of sale. This stage considers the distance, plus the transportation method and its carbon footprint.

4 Usage and parts
Once consumers have purchased the device, they will own and use it for several years. The useful life of the device depends on factors including durability, upgradability and repairability, in addition to the energy consumption of the device from charging.

5 End of life
This last stage looks at the environmental impact of disposing of the device, including an assessment of how easy it is to be refurbished or if its metals and the plastics can be easily recycled.

- Why Eco Rating is a strong enabler
- Helps customers make informed and more sustainable choices
- Encourages suppliers to reduce environmental impact of their devices
- Aligns the industry in improving transparency and reducing its environmental footprint
- Positive impact on environment: CO2 and e-waste reduction
- Supports Vodafone targets on Net Zero by 2040

What is AppBox?

Vodafone AppBox is a service which recommends a collection of free mobile apps during setup of a compatible handset – you can choose to download the ones you want. It comes already installed on any compatible device you buy from us.

The apps in AppBox won't take up any storage space on your device until you install them.

Which devices have AppBox?
AppBox is available on handsets from the following manufacturers: Samsung*, Oppo, Xiaomi & TCL. AppBox is not available on iOS or on any Androids other than the four listed above.

*AppBox is NOT available on Enterprise Edition devices e.g. Samsung Enterprise Editions.

How does AppBox work?
AppBox recommends apps based on demographic information provided by the customer. You can skip this if you wish and do not have to download any apps if you do not want to.

How does AppBox work with Business devices?
Some Apps recommended by AppBox may not work for some Business customers as this will depend on the security/set up allowance set by their company. If downloaded they will be blocked in the same way as they would be as if downloaded from the Google play store.

EATS.

Everyone's Addicted To Something (EATS.)

Over 1 billion phone cases are made yearly, with the majority made from single-use plastics. 79% of cases end their life in landfills and other natural areas. The solution? A 100% recycled clear MagSafe case that includes a CO^2e value for the end-to-end manufacture and distribution, which is a first for Vodafone's portfolio. The EATS. case is also drop test certified up to 3 metres. From September '24, Vodafone will be the only place where customers can purchase a case with a CO^2e labelling.
